It is the intention of the College to publish within the three years that remain before the semi-centennial celebration, several classified lists of its Students: I. Graduates; II. Alumni; III. Matriculates. The precedence is justly given to those who have remained to carry off baccalaureate honors.

In reviewing the ranks drawn up in this first catalogue, we cannot fail to congratulate ourselves on the number—an average of ten Graduates per annum—as well as on the prominence in the professions that many have achieved. The deep foundations intended to be laid in our system of education, have in most cases reared no mean and inadequate superstructure: the secular avocations point to some of our collegians as their decus et columen, and in the Church, has not the venerable summit of the mitre been attained? When, therefore, our Jubilee arrives in '93, Holy Cross may without conceit or arrogance go to the archives of Catholic American history, and demand more than a mere registry of name for its five hundred Graduates.

Our undergraduates turning over this family record, will feel the stimulus of loftier aspiration and more strenuous endeavor; they will consider that if with the youthful spirits of the Iliad they desire to be better than their fathers, they will have no easy task to perform. Whilst for the living Graduates this roll will bring back pleasant reminiscences and promote an affectionate interest in classes and individuals, for the deceased it may prove a more grateful memorial than the inscription on cold marble. For shall we not in their instance elevate the prompting of nature towards the dead which Tacitus observed in the primitive races of the North, honestum est viris meminisse, into the loving Catholic suffrage of a memento?

In thanking all for their kind response to the circular, and for the information so promptly and cheerfully furnished, we would bespeak similar action in our future inquiries. In particular, Richard H. Mooney, A. M., the energetic Secretary of the Alumni Association, has put us under obligations for material aid derived from his carefully kept records. If a line be sent us immediately, whilst the matter is fresh in the mind, the vacancies that will be noticed after names, especially the date and place of death, will disappear in the next issue.
